Alexis de Tocqueville in his book "Democracy in America" observed that in America the law is relied upon as a means of resolving social, economic and political problems. Upon the Legislative Assembly devolves the responsibility for making the laws of the province and solving its problems and, in the process, debating contemporary issues of public policy whose significance to both province and country is far reaching. The growing complexity of governmental activities in diverse fields requires maximum access by the lawmakers to the sources of law and stimulates the need for current information. In attempting to satisfy this need the Legislative Library fulfills its prime obligation of responding to the information and research requirements of the Legislative Assembly and of government departments, special committees, task forces and commissions which the government may appoint from time to time.

All agencies of government have made increasing use of the information resources from the Library's special collections to help them in the drafting of legislative proposals, the preparing of special studies and general reports, and the tracing of the historical background of current issues and problems in the planning and development of program priorities.

In response to a request from the Development and Training section of Management Committee of Cabinet, the Assistant Legislative Librarian during the year gave talks on the resources and use of the Legislative Library to several groups of government employees.

ACQUISITIONS

To meet changing needs and to supply the research material necessary for these various spheres of activity, the Library has since 1870 been accumulating books, periodicals and newspapers and an extensive collection of government publications. By virtue of its early establishment the Library now contains the best collection of materials available on the history of the province and possesses the most comprehensive depository of Manitoba government publications. It is the availability of special material in the Legislative Library which adds to its stature as an important research centre. Through various sources, official deposits, gifts and exchange agreements the Library receives a great variety of material. As in years past, the Library also adds to its collection through purchases of books, periodicals, newspapers and microfilms on subjects of importance and interest to its users. "A Selected List of Acquisitions" is published bi-monthly for distribution to members of the Legislative Assembly, departmental officials and other interested persons.

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS

Of inestimable value to the Library's users is the current extensive collection of Canadian federal and provincial government publications and publications of the governments of the United States, Great Britain and some Commonwealth countries as well as those of the United Nations and several of its agencies. Through reciprocal exchange agreements, established by the Library many decades ago with the national and legislative libraries of the governments concerned, these resource materials are received on a continuing basis. During the past year 19,983 publications were received from federal and provincial governments as well as 13,224 from the United States and 3,259 from other sources. In turn the Legislative Library to meet its obligations under these agreements sent out to these libraries Manitoba government publications which are in the public domain. The Library also distributed selected Manitoba publications to public, university and special libraries both within and outside the province. In 1973, 430 titles or a total of 3,366 publications were thus distributed.

Government publications are an important and sometimes the only source of information on current issues and government programs. For this reason it is necessary that access to them be made as easy as possible. Every legislative library experiences difficulty in obtaining provincial government publications. Librarians have therefore welcomed the initiation of a new service by MicroMedia Limited of Toronto which provides in microfiche form Canadian provincial and municipal publications. In order to do so MicroMedia receives copies of publications to be microfilmed from a designated source within each jurisdiction. In Manitoba the Legislative Library has undertaken to provide this service.

"A Checklist of Manitoba Government Publications" issued continuously since 1971 records the publications received by the Library from the Legislative Assembly and from the various departments and other administrative agencies of the Manitoba Government. Though it is still not a complete record of Manitoba government publishing, chiefly because the issuing departments and agencies do not always send their publications to the Library, the checklist remains to date the most current compilation of these publications and, as such, constitutes an important segment of present day Manitoba bibliography. It serves not only as a source of information on government publications but records something of the work of the departments and the programs and activities of the Manitoba government. The checklist is distributed three times a year to cabinet ministers, deputy ministers, departmental personnel and to the National Library of Canada, the Library of Congress, the British National Library, the provincial legislative libraries, university and college libraries and municipal and public libraries across the continent.

RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

By virtue of its special collections the Library also serves the needs of organizations and associations and the wide community of researchers (particularly those engaged in projects relating to Manitoba and Western Canada). As in previous years a considerable number of post-secondary students, engaged in research and community involvement projects under the federal government's Opportunity for Youth Program, made extensive use of the library resources during the summer months of 1973. The staff devoted a great deal of time to assisting these students to collect the varied data which they required to fulfill their research commitments.

Government policies and programs touching the many aspects of the daily lives of the nation's citizens have generated an increase in demands for current information on the great variety of government activities. The news media's growing coverage of national and provincial affairs has stimulated the citizen's awareness of the role of government in his life. The reflection of this interest can be seen in the enquiries directed to the Library immediately following the public announcement of reports and studies such as the "Report on natural resources policy in Manitoba" by Eric Kierans and the provincial government's "Guidelines for the 70's". Among the federal publications much in demand were the reports of the Food Prices Review Board, the "Working papers on Social Security in Canada" and "An energy policy for Canada".

During 1973 there has been a steady and progressive increase in the use of the Library's resources and facilities. Among the many subjects which were focal points of interest may be noted: land use, guaranteed annual income, utilization of agricultural commodities, foreign ownership, community health centres, transportation studies and reports, Churchill River diversion project, feed grains policy, intergovernmental tax relations, prescription drugs, telecommunication, urban planning, James Bay development, expropriation of property, criminal injuries compensation, water control, agricultural labour force.

Interest of citizens in the forthcoming observance of the hundredth anniversary in 1974 of the incorporation of the City of Winnipeg continued during the year in an upward trend. Files of Winnipeg newspapers, particularly the anniversary editions which chronicled events, achievements and other information of particular historical interest in depicting the rapid change from settlement to city, were used extensively. Periodicals containing illustrative material, notably The Colonist, The Great Northwest, The Commercial, The Beaver, The Canadian Illustrated News and The Dominion Illustrated were in demand for material with which to highlight themes in projects and programs for centennial celebrations.

Always high in a provincial election year, interest in electoral laws and procedures was evident in 1973 during the time of the election campaign. Many questions were answered relating to developments in the electoral systems of Canada and the provinces, party platforms, electoral boundaries and voting qualifications of the electors. The staff was kept busy providing newspaper articles reporting previous election results, biographies of candidates for office and information on broadcasting regulations, political activities of civil servants and reporting of election expenditures.

The widespread concern with the economic potentialities of the northern regions of Canada was discernible in the numerous requests for research materials relating to this vast area. The growing shortage of natural gas and electric power in America gave rise to mounting requests for information about these important public resources. In response to demands for background and current information on these subjects extensive use was made of the file of Arctic Bibliography; of laws, regulations and policies dealing with environmental protection and control; of surveys of soil, water resources and geological and mineral exploration; of transportation and communication studies and of statistical, technical and scientific reports.

Inquiries generally ranged from requests for factual information and current articles and background material to queries involving research in depth. The staff responded to more than 12,900 reference questions in 1973 compared to slightly over 12,000 in 1972. In addition to direct service the library answered 425 interlibrary loan requests from other libraries in 1973 as compared with 374 in 1972; in 1973 the Library borrowed from other libraries 387 items on interlibrary loan compared to 352 in 1972.

ORGANIZATION OF MATERIALS

Growing demands on the Library staff have meant continuing curtailment of several library operations. Over 49,000 items were received during 1973. Of this number, full cataloguing was done for 1,511 titles and the number of fully catalogued volumes added to the collection was 1,597.

The need for more staff has been recognized with the approval of four additional positions. This increase in the staff will mean that some material which hitherto has remained unorganized will be made more readily accessible for reference and research purposes.

PRESERVATION OF MATERIALS

The microfilming of the Library's holdings of the urban and rural newspapers and of the ethnic language newspapers published in Manitoba was continued during the past year. Copies of positive microfilms of the newspapers covered in this project are available for purchase by other libraries. Several cultural organizations have purchased the microfilm editions of some of the Manitoba ethnic language newspapers as part of their recently initiated multicultural programs.

Many years ago a comprehensive program was undertaken by the Canadian Library Association to microfilm early Canadian newspapers, periodicals and other publications of interest and make positive copies available to libraries and institutions. The Legislative Library has supported this microfilm program since its inception. During the past year the Library's file of the National Home Monthly which was published in Winnipeg from 1904 to 1950 and which is the most nearly complete file extant in Canada was loaned to the Canadian Library Association for this purpose.

The bound volumes containing articles on the procedures of the Legislative Assembly of Manitoba, taken from the daily Winnipeg newspapers, dating from the 1880's, are in advanced stages of deterioration due to the brittle condition of the paper and the extensive use of these volumes during many years. These volumes constitute a unique chronological account of the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly before these began to be reported in 1958 in the provincial Hansard. This made it an imperative and urgent concern to begin the preservation of these volumes by the process of lamination to avoid the threatened loss of this valuable historical and legislative record.

In order to reduce the risks to valuable originals through extensive handling, the Library microfilmed or photostated a number of important works among its rare books, pamphlets and periodicals. This serves not only to preserve these rarities but also makes them more widely accessible in the reproduced form.

LIBRARY PREMISES

The very critical need and the perplexing problem of adequate space to house the Library's growing collections and space for personnel and services areas has been repeatedly noted in annual reports during the last two decades. Since 1951 no additional space has been assigned to the Library. During the same period the Provincial Archives has been occupying space in the Library for its administrative offices and in addition has taken over from the Library area the space required for the storage of its materials. With each passing year this has diminished the space available for the Library's own operations. The effective use of the collections and the provision of adequate service were rendered increasingly difficult by the extremely congested conditions in every area of the library. The use of double-shelving and triple-shelving in most of the library's stacks were necessary palliative measures which made retrieval of items difficult. At this point in time, most of the aisles in the stack rooms are literally filled with file boxes piled up three layers high.

The staff has cheerfully coped with the almost insurmountable difficulty of providing satisfactory service and of filing the influx of current acquisitions in the present overcrowded space, in the expectation that the Library would soon make the "big move" to new quarters in the former Winnipeg Civic Auditorium (renamed the Provincial Library and Archives Building). This will allow the Library, for the first time in years, adequate space for its operations and efficient organization of library materials and services and for the expansion that will be required to carry out its future programs.

STAFF AND PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES

With the appointment of a full-time Director of Public Library Services in February, the Legislative Librarian was relieved of her duties as Acting Director.

The Legislative Librarian, Miss Clementine Combaz, attended the annual conference of l'Association des Bibliothécaires de langue française held in Montreal from October 23-27. In December she participated in the Government Publications Workshop, held under the auspices of the Manitoba Library Association, where she delivered a paper on the "Distribution of Manitoba Government Publications".

The Assistant Legislative Librarian, Miss Margaret Ashley, attended the annual conference of the Canadian Library Association held from June 15-22 at Mount Allison University, Sackville, New Brunswick.

The Library owes its record of accomplishment to the staff for their sustained effort and continued interest in the growth and development of its progress and services.

Respectfully submitted,

Clementine Combaz

Legislative Librarian.

REPORT

PROVINCIAL ARCHIVES

1973

1973 could be described as a year of "eventful waiting" for the Provincial Archives of Manitoba.

It was a year of waiting principally because further delays postponed the completion of the Provincial Library and Archives Building into 1974. Consequently the Archives continue to occupy the same but ever more congested offices and storage areas in the Legislative Building.

It was an eventful year most especially because of the signing on July 31st, 1973 of an agreement by the Premier of Manitoba, the Honourable Edward R. Schreyer, and the Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, Mr. George A. Richardson, providing for the deposit of the Hudson's Bay Company's Archives in the custody of the Provincial Archives of Manitoba during the second half of 1974.

1973 was also an eventful year in respect to the volume of material accessioned and the use made of existing collections by researchers in Manitoba, most provinces, several American states and a few overseas countries. 1,703 personal visits were paid to the Archives compared to 1,565 in 1972. Telephone enquiries numbered 2,264 compared to 2,111 in 1972 and 1,575 letters were sent compared to 1,456 in the previous calendar year.

Use of the Photograph Collection showed the most startling change, perhaps reflecting the preparations being made for the celebrations of the centennial of the City of Winnipeg in 1974. The number of prints reproduced increased 87% over the total number of orders received in the preceding year.

During 1970, the centennial year of the Province of Manitoba, the Archives produced 4,575 photographic prints; in 1971 the volume declined to 1,903; in 1972 it climbed to 3,209; but in 1973 orders were received for 6,000 prints. Both professional and clerical staff were kept fully occupied meeting these requests, and in attempting to organize a large volume of photographic acquisitions. On December 31st, 1973 the collection included 62,269 catalogued prints and slides.

The Provincial Archivist attended three meetings at Ottawa of the Advisory Committee on Land Claims of the Native Council of Canada. He attended the annual meetings of the Archives Section of the Canadian Historical Association held at Kingston, Ontario, in June, and in September travelled to the Yukon Territory to serve as the 1973 chairman of the Canadian Conference on Historical Resources which met at Whitehorse and Dawson City from September 9th to 14th.

On September 19th he presided over the Manuscripts Session of the annual meetings of the American Association for State and Local History which were held at Edmonton — the second time the A.A.S.L.H. has ever met in Canada.

Throughout the year he continued to serve on the Historic Sites Advisory Board and on the Council of the Manitoba Historical Society.

In November, the Provincial Archivist was appointed an Honourary Professor by the University of Winnipeg, in which rank he joins the Director of the Winnipeg Art Gallery and the Director of the Manitoba Museum of Man and Nature.

In November he paid a brief visit to London, England, to inspect the Hudson's Bay Company's Archives and assess the problems of accommodating them and staffing them once they are moved to Winnipeg and made a responsibility of the Provincial Archives of Manitoba.

Mr. Barry E. Hyman, Assistant Archivist represented the Provincial Archives at the 1973 meeting of the Prairie Archivists, held in the Archives of the Canadian Rockies at Banff, Alberta, on May 5, 1973. In July he travelled to Edmonton to lecture for two days, at the first Archives Course offered by the University of Alberta during its summer session.

Miss Elizabeth A. Blight, Assistant Archivist, represented the Provincial Archives at the Conference on the Social Gospel held at the Regina Campus of the University of Saskatchewan from March 21st to 24th. During the summer months she acted as consultant to the Royal Winnipeg Ballet which has begun to organize its own archives. This may be a pioneer project in Canada; opera archives have been organized in the past but no precedents are known for the archives of a ballet company.

HUDSON'S BAY ARCHIVES

The illuminated deposit agreement signed at a public ceremony in the Manitoba Room of the Legislative Buildings on July 31st by Premier Schreyer on behalf of the Provincial Government, and Mr. George Richardson as Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, was an appropriate climax of more than two years of negotiations.

Presently the Hudson's Bay Archives include manuscript materials filling approximately 4,300 feet of shelving, an associated library of related printed materials, a map collection, a small but fascinating collection of portraits, paintings, prints and drawings, and a miscellany of objects of historical interest. The entire collection is expected to be shipped to Canada in the second half of 1974.

When it arrives in Winnipeg it will be accommodated in a specially designed, air-conditioned, humidity-controlled stack area in the new Provincial Library and Archives Building now being completed.

The Hudson's Bay Archives will continue to be an "alive" and expanding collection after it has been moved to Canada for provisions have been made for the Company to add materials to it periodically as it has been doing during the many years the Archives have been maintained in the Company's head office, Beaver House, Great Trinity Lane, in the heart of the fur trade area of the City of London.

It should be made clear that the agreement provides for the deposit of the Hudson's Bay Archives in the custody and premises of the Provincial Archives; they have not been given to the Government of Manitoba. The Hudson's Bay Archives may remain the legal property of the Company indefinitely. Provision has been made for either party, the Company or the Provincial Government, to terminate the agreement on five years' notice. Provision has also been made for the Company to give the Hudson's Bay Archives to the Government of Manitoba at any time it wishes to do so.

The Hudson's Bay Archives will be maintained as a separate unit within the holdings of the Provincial Archives. The system of organization and classification devised over thirty years ago on the advice of Sir Hilary Jenkinson, Deputy Keeper of the Public Record Office, and Professor R. Coupland of Oxford University will continue to be applied to the present collection and future accessions.

Of great interest to all scholars will be the liberalization of conditions of access to the Hudson's Bay Archives which the Company intends to introduce as soon as the collection is safely installed in Winnipeg. The rules of admission to the Provincial Archives will apply for admission to the Hudson's Bay Archives. Both the Hudson's Bay Archives and the manuscript and public records collections of the Provincial Archives will be made available to accredited researchers during evening hours and on week-ends.

The only restriction on the Hudson's Bay Archives will be on ten subject areas over which exclusive publication rights will be reserved to the Hudson's Bay Record Society.

The move of the Hudson's Bay Archives from London to Winnipeg must be one of the largest transfers of historical documents ever to be made from the British Isles to Canada. Certainly the material, covering more than three hundred years of fur-trading and exploration in North America as well as commercial dealings in the United Kingdom and Europe, is of great international as well as Canadian significance.

It can only be hoped that once in Manitoba the Hudson's Bay Archives will be even more thoroughly researched than they have been in the past, when the original documents were in London and a microfilm copy of those dating before 1870 was only available, with the Company's permission, at the Public Archives of Canada in Ottawa.

ACQUISITIONS

Manuscripts: Manuscript acquisitions range over a great many facets of Manitoba's history; federal, provincial, and civic politics, labour unions and industrial unrest, commercial, legal, church and military activities, agriculture, the Port of Churchill, music, drama, education and the office of the Lieutenant Governor.

The most surprising acquisition was a large heavy wooden box filled with documents relating to the Winnipeg General Strike of 1919. The sealed box was found in the basement of the Winnipeg Law Courts in February 1973. When opened it proved to contain a large amount of documentary material often sought but long believed to be lost, including the exhibits in "The King vs. William Ivens," 1919-1920, and "The King vs. R.P. Roblin and Thomas Kelly", 1913-1915.

Another manuscript volume of significance to the Post World War I years is the 1920-1923 Minute Book of the Independent Labour Party of Manitoba, rediscovered by Dr. J.E. Rea of The University of Manitoba and given by him to the Provincial Archives.

In May seventy two reels of positive microfilm were received from the Public Archives of Canada. This was the first shipment of records of the federal Immigration Branch which played such a significant role in the settlement of the prairies. It is being filmed at the request of the provincial archivists of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, with costs being shared by the three provinces and the Public Archives of Canada.

Mrs. Ruth Winkler of Morden presented additional Valentine Winkler and Howard Winkler papers during the year, completing the collections she gave to the Archives in 1971.

Two Louis Riel letters were purchased at Montreal Book Auctions' February sale. The first, written on 28 December 1879 from Montana, fills a gap of more than a year in the Archives collection of Riel correspondence, and contains some interesting comments on the conditions of the metis in the American west. The second letter concerns Riel's visit to Winnipeg in the summer of 1883.

School district registers and minute books continued to be deposited in the Archives in large quantities, as the detailed list of acquisitions appended to this report illustrates. A surprising number of reference enquiries are generated by these records for legal and educational purposes.

Pictures: A number of significant and sizeable photographic acquisitions were made during the year. The G.R. Vendome Collection included fifty-five rare early photographs of the Trappist Monastery at St. Norbert. Mr. C.G. Bainbridge of North Vancouver gave a variety of items of interest including thirty-five prints of the 1916 floods which devastated Winnipeg while some additional L.B. Foote prints were acquired from his son, Mr. A.E. Foote.

The Winnipeg Free Press presented more than 2,500 prints and negatives to the Archives, covering the months between June 1960 and January 1961. The Film Library of the Department of Consumer, Corporate and Internal Services passed to the Archives approximately 2,000 negatives taken between 1948 and 1965 for the Department of Industry and Commerce. Both these large collections will add material of great interest to our holdings after they have been weeded of duplicates, organized and catalogued.

A welcome gift from the Manitoba Museum of Man and Nature was the album of Mrs. John Black, wife of the Rev. John Black, 1818-1882, who came to Red River in 1851 to be the first Presbyterian clergyman in the Settlement. It contains 177 photographs.

Two more Walter J. Phillips coloured woodcuts of Manitoba scenes were acquired, "Autumn, Assiniboine River" and "Fall, Lake Winnipeg."

In December a William Armstrong watercolour was purchased at auction in Vancouver, "Colonel Wolseley's Camp — Prince Arthur's Landing," one painted during the Wolseley Expedition of 1870. As we have long wished to add a work by this artist to the Archives' picture collection it made a most welcome final acquisition in the year 1973.

STAFF

The only change in staff to occur throughout the year was the appointment of Mr. Gilbert-Louis Comeault as an Assistant Archivist on August 20, 1973, as a result of a Civil Service Commission competition, which attracted fifty applications. Provincial Archives' staff now includes Provincial Archivist, John A. Bovey, Assistant Archivists Barry E. Hyman, Elizabeth A. Blight, Gilbert L. Comeault; Mrs. Louisa Douglas, Clerk III, and Mrs. Jannie Kazimir, Clerk-Typist II.

DOCUMENTS COMMITTEE

The Documents Committee met five times during the year, the Provincial Archivist presiding as Chairman and Mr. Barry E. Hyman, Assistant Archivist, acting as Secretary. Records disposal schedules were approved for the Departments of Tourism, Recreation and Cultural Affairs, Labour and Education, The Pas Correctional Institution of the Department of Health and Social Development and the Administration Branch of the Manitoba Public Insurance Corporation.

Respectfully submitted,

Provincial Archivist.

REPORT

LIBRARY

HEALTH AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

1973

LIBRARY

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

Mrs. Pauline Luffman, Librarian of the Department of Health and Social Development for ten years, retired from that position in June, 1973. Her years as Librarian were characterized by a continuing effort to improve the collection and to maintain a high standard of service. Under her professional guidance the resources and activities of the library were developed so that it became a vital centre for information for the personnel of the Department.

This library is the information centre for the Department of Health and Social Development. It endeavours to supply reference material including material to assist in research and evaluation of programmes to the many branches and divisions engaged in public health and welfare and rehabilitation. The collection contains official government documents, such as reports, studies and statistics from Canada and the provinces, the United States and Great Britain pertaining to the specialized fields of the Department. There are also publications from the World Health Organization, as well as newsletters, annual reports and publications of health and welfare organizations which are useful in providing information on the activities of these organizations. The Library also maintains a large collection of periodicals of particular interest to its patrons.

ACQUISITIONS

Some divisions of the Department such as the Mental Hospitals build up permanent collections for the use of their professional staff and teaching departments. This has increased noticeably the ordering and processing of books and non-book material for the staff. Many projects are being carried out by the various branches of the Department and this requires a stock of special material to meet the needs of these research programmes.

Besides the purchase of book and non-book material, the Library received free material from publishers, government departments, and gifts from staff members of the Department, which represent a useful addition to the collection. Acquisitions decreased slightly in 1973 due to no orders being processed for four months since the library was without a librarian. In December Miss Gertrude Perrin was appointed acting librarian on a term basis pending a permanent appointment to the position. An effort was then made to complete the necessary ordering.

A total of 1,118 books was purchased in 1973, including 198 for the Library and 845 for the Divisions. Seventy-five complimentary copies of books were received. Ninety-eight subscriptions to periodicals for the library and 780 for the Divisions were processed this year. In July, 1973, 188 books were withdrawn from the library collection, and transferred to the library of the Department of Mines, Resources and Environmental Management.

REFERENCE

The library continues to expand its reference services as the interest widens in matters relating to health, welfare and rehabilitation. The reference collection must be kept comprehensive and up-to-date and particular attention is paid to increasing the library's holdings in these fields. One hundred interlibrary loans were arranged for material of all types not available in this library and 250 interlibrary loans from the collection of the Department Library were sent to libraries requesting them. Reading lists and bibliographies on specific subjects were prepared on request.

The subjects dealt with most frequently this year were extended care services, home care, emergency medical services, mental health and mental retardation, crisis intervention, evaluation of public health and welfare programs and correctional institutions. Many reference and research projects were prepared for the staff of the Office of Research and Planning, the Working Group on Health Policy, and the rural staff of the regional health offices. The Women's Bureau of the Department of Labour and the Research Office of the Department of Education also requested much information. A professional librarian was hired on a part-time basis to catalogue the collection in the library of the Manitoba Health Services Commission. Since no professional librarian was on duty full-time it was necessary to give reference assistance throughout the year to the clerical staff of the Commission library.

A total of 11,235 books, pamphlets and periodicals was circulated. This included the routing of many of the journals and other periodicals to members of the Department. A total of 1,475 periodicals, 2,359 books and 19,889 pamphlets were used in the library.

CATALOGUING AND CLASSIFICATION

Full cataloguing and classification was completed for 198 books and documents for the library. Descriptive cataloguing of 800 books and documents was completed for material ordered by the Divisions. The descriptive cards are added to the library catalogue to constitute a union catalogue of the holdings of the entire Department, giving access to any of this material wherever located.

ACTIVITIES AND PUBLICATIONS

In June of 1973 material which was of interest to the former Environmental Health Division, now a branch of the Department of Mines, Resources and Environmental Management, was transferred to the new library of that Department. This involved publications in the area of pollution, sanitation, public health engineering, public health inspection, pesticides, food control and sewage pamphlets. In addition 75 periodical titles were sent. The journals included all the back issues and bound volumes for each title. All book catalogue cards and periodical records were also sent to permit the easy integration of the publications into the new Library's collection. This transfer of material involved a great deal of work by our staff.

Several accession lists of new material received by the Library were prepared and distributed to all staff and other interested library users. Material was prepared for the Prenatal Institute for Nurses sponsored by the Department in the spring. This involved the selection and preparation of the most recent valuable publications in the area of maternal and infant care.

REPORT

DIRECTOR OF

PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVICES

1973

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVICES

Honourable René Toupin,
Minister i/c of
The Public Libraries Act.

Sir:

Pursuant to The Public Libraries Act, R.S.M. 1972, P220, I have the honour to present the report of the Director of Public Library Services for the calendar year 1973.

The Public Libraries Act, which constitutes the legal base for the development and operation of public libraries in the province, came into force on July 1, 1948. Seventeen regional and fifteen municipal libraries were operating under the provision of this Act at the end of December 1973.

FIELD TRIPS AND MEETINGS

During the year the University Extension Librarian, Mrs. Douglas Merry, undertook numerous field trips for Public Library Services, as well as attending various library-related meetings. In April, the Steinbach Public Library Board received the first of ten visits to advise them on furniture, equipment, building arrangements, book stock, and daily operations. The opening of the Steinbach Public Library was attended in October, and after that date Mrs. Merry worked with the librarian to establish library procedures and handle other problems, including book cataloguing and selection.

At the request of various rural librarians for assistance, Mrs. Merry made trips to The Pas Public Library, the Jolys Regional Library in St. Pierre, the Evergreen Regional Library in Gimli, the Boyne Regional library in Carman, the Boissevain and Morton Regional Library in Boissevain, and the Lakeland Regional Library in Killarney.

Mrs. Merry went to Birtle in January to discuss the possibility of the village joining the Virden-Elkhorn library system. She visited Beausejour in February and met with the Women's Institute and Town Council to discuss a regional library for their area.

At the request of the Director, Mrs. Merry visited several joint public/school libraries in the provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. The purpose of the trip was to investigate how the functions and services of public and school libraries could be successfully merged into community libraries. On her visits Mrs. Merry looked closely at the administration, organization and financial arrangements of each library. The terms of agreement between the municipality and the school board were investigated. Policy, too, was examined: book selection and collection development, circulation regulations (including any borrower restrictions), etc. And finally, the type of legislation required to ensure the success of integrated public/school libraries was investigated.

The National Conference on Library statistics held in Ottawa on the 24th and 25th of March was attended by Mrs. Merry for Mr. Hanlon. This conference covered the role and purpose of library statistics in Canada. The policy of Statistics Canada, data items to be collected by different libraries, various collection agencies, and the dissemination of data were all discussed.

NEW LIBRARIES

During the 1973/74 fiscal year Manitoba saw the establishment of two new public libraries:

Steinbach Public Library, established by By-law no. 530, February 5, 1973.

Rapid City Regional Library, established by By-law no. 3-74, (Town of Rapid City), and By-law 793 (R.M. of Saskatchewan), both dated January 8, 1974.

PARKLAND REGIONAL LIBRARY PROJECT

The Parkland Regional Library Service is an experimental project which was established in 1970. During the initial three years the project operated with an average annual budget of approximately $123,600.00 under the direction of the Department of Agriculture. For the fiscal year 1973/74 the project was transferred to the Department of Tourism, Recreation and Cultural Affairs and provided with an operating grant of $85,000.00.

Recognizing that the era of major experimentation was over, the project sought, in 1973/74, to concentrate on reorganization of services and operations in order to increase effectiveness and efficiency in three main areas:

1. Reorganization of headquarters operations to increase efficiency and economy.

   This heading includes a new building rental agreement, the consolidation and reorganization of work areas, the creation of a card catalog to replace the expensive experimental computerized book catalog, the development of a location file for the purpose of circulation control and to serve as the basis of a request system, the implementation of a book rotation system reflecting community reading habits and the preparation of an outline of work routines and procedures.

2. Expansion and improvement of service to the public.

   Developments in this area include the adoption of depot and bookmobile standards and the rationalization of service. This includes upgrading some depots and closing others, changing non-viable depots to bookmobile stops and eliminating non-viable bookmobile stops. A depot attendants manual was written and distributed to all attendants to provide guidance on routines and services. A regular schedule of supervision and assistance to depot attendants was inaugurated. To fill requests for books in foreign languages, the library service rented books in Ukrainian and German from the Toronto Public Library. Reports indicate that these books are being well used. Other innovations include subject labels for fiction books and the establishment of a request service.

The effectiveness of these changes is reflected in the following table of total book circulation for the project.

Circulation

1972/73	1973/74
73,258	114,659

Circulation for each month in 1973/74 shows an increase over the same month the previous year. Total circulation for the year is 56% higher than the previous year.

3. Development of the information service aspect of the project.

In May 1973, the original information operation was evaluated. Concluding that the initial experiment resulted in the creation of a service which was under-utilized, the evaluation report made proposals for a new structure and approach for the information service. However, because a provincial library system was being planned, it was obvious that no major changes could be introduced in 1973/74.

The library project did, however, articulate and implement a new philosophy for the information centre which is much more service oriented. This coupled with greater public awareness of the information service has led to a 142% increase in information inquiries over last year.

Information Inquiries

497	1,207

While usage of the service in its present form is on the upswing, the present approach is far from satisfactory. What is required is an entirely new approach in the organization and operation of information services in the region and in the province.

In summary, the library project in 1973/74, has made very real progress in a number of important areas. However, there is still much to be accomplished before the information, educational and recreational aspects of a total library service can be said to be truly available to Parkland residents.

Respectfully submitted,

Peter Hanlon, Director
Public Library Services
